RESIDENT SURGEON'S REPORT.

NOTWITHSTANDING the limited accommodation consequent upon the building operations which have progressed during the past year, 588 persons have been treated in the house. The mortality has been slightly in excess of the preceding 12 months, chiefly on account of the large number of incurable cases admitted, but no doubt partly in consequence of the crowded state of the wards during a portion of the year, rendered necessary by the constant and urgent appeals for admission.

As an example of the fatal nature of the cases received, it may be well to state, that of the total number who died, 15 were the victims of accidents beyond the reach of surgical skill; 26 were cases of Phthisis, Aneurism, Cancer, Gangrene, Abscess, Ovarian Dropsy, and diseases of the Brain, Heart and Liver, in such an advanced stage that nothing could be done to ameliorate the symptoms. In addition to these cases, the large number of 25 were moribund on admission; 11 died within 24 hours after being received, 7 within 48 hours, and 7 in less than 4 days, from accidents and diseases which might in all probability have been successfully combated had relief been sooner sought. The improvement in the sanatory condition of the house since the opening of the new wing, has, however been most apparent, as an illustration of which, it may be stated that within the last two months, 5 capital operations have been performed with the utmost success, and that the patients are all progressing most favorably towards recovery.

SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT OF
THE COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT OF THE
BALLARAT DISTRICT HOSPITAL.

In presenting to the governors and subscribers to the Hospital the sixth annual report of its transactions, the committee of management have much pleasure in congratulating them upon the present efficient state of the institution, and beg leave to call their attention to a few of the chief features which have marked its progress since their election.

Notwithstanding the restricted accommodation caused by the building operation, 588 persons have received the benefits of the institution during the year. Of this number, 439 have been cured or relieved, 88 have died, and 61 remained in the house on the last day of December. In addition to the above, 2400 out-patients (attended to upon 8987 different occasions) have received advice and medicine gratuitously during the same period, on the recommendation of governors and subscribers to the Hospital, making a total of 2988 cases treated.

In consequence of the many important improvements which have been carried out, the expenditure during the year has been very considerable, although the outlay immediately connected with the domestic management of the house has been materially diminished. This latter result is chiefly referrible to the indefatigable attention of the members of the house committee, who have met the many claims upon their time and consideration, with a cheerful alacrity deserving of the warmest thanks of the subscribers. The balance sheets contain detailed particulars of the receipts and expenditure, and show a balance of £1028 5s. 9d. remaining to the credit of the general account, and a debit of £1395 4s. against the building fund for money advanced on loan, to enable the committee to erect the new centre. This position, all things considered, is most satisfactory, and your committee would avail themselves of the present opportunity to return thanks to the public of this and the surrounding districts, for the liberality with which they have responded to their appeal. Notwithstanding the frequent claims upon their benevolence from other quarters, the large sum of £2167 2s. 6d. has been contributed from private sources during the year, and your committee trust that the generous support accorded to them during their term of office, may long be extended to their successors.

Reviewing the many important improvements which have been carried out under the supervision of your committee, the new centre now approaching completion first claims attention. It will be remembered that in their last report they stated, that on the removal of the old female ward the north wall was found to be in such a dangerous condition that immediate steps had to be taken for its support, the course of events however, soon showed that the back wall was in an equally insecure state, and the necessity for prompt and active measures, not only to preserve the south wing of the building, but to guard the lives of the inmates, forced itself upon your committee.

The propriety of re-erecting the whole of the centre, which had been at one time strongly advocated by a section of the late committee, was now once more brought under consideration, and, acting on the advice of Messrs. Webb, Doane, Caselli, and their own architect, Mr. C. D. Cuthbert, who agreed that although the building might be secured for the time by taking down the north-east corner, and supporting it with buttresses, the wisest course undoubtedly was to rebuild it; the building was, after protracted deliberation ultimately condemned. Arrangements having been completed for a temporary loan from the Colonial Bank of Australasia, and the promise of a grant of £1000 having been obtained from Government, tenders for the re-building of the centre were invited, and on the 28th of April that of Messrs. Francis and Buley for £2593 being the lowest, was accepted. This contract is now on the eve of completion, and the building, when open, will afford convenient accommodation for the treatment of out-door patients, as well as accommodation for the resident staff, and domestics, and offices, bath rooms, and store rooms, &c, hitherto much required. Looking upon the pile of building as it now stands, your committee feel that the public have much reason to congratulate themselves upon the noble institution which has arisen in their midst, however much the untoward causes which led to such a heavy and unexpected outlay must be regretted.

The north wing, consisting of two spacious wards, with closets and washing-rooms attached, now occupied by about forty patients, has also been completed at a cost of £2640 ; and a laundry, drying-rooms, and boiler-house, hitherto much required, and now rendered absolutely necessary by the increased demands of the establishment are in process of erection.

It has been found necessary to alter the arrangement of the garden, so as to make it correspond with the front of the building, and the work has been carried on under the supervision of a committee appointed for the purpose. A useful fence has also been erected around the yard and garden.

The serious attention of your committee has been called time after time, to the defective drainage of the institution, and a system for the inoffensive disposal of the sewerage, similar to that so highly approved of at the Melbourne Lying-in Hospital, and strongly recommended by the Central Board of Health is now under consideration.

With the additional accommodation afforded by the new wing, your committee have been enabled to submit the old wards to a thorough process of purification, and they are glad to learn from the medical and surgical staff, that the benefits of the recent improvements are already most clearly shown in many instances. Cases in which they would scarcely have dared to operate under the old regime, when the wards were of necessity crowded to an injurious extent, have lately been successfully treated, and are progressing rapidly towards recovery, in consequence of the improved ventilation of the wards, and the greater facilities for obtaining a constant supply of pure air.

In the month of November, the members of the Commission appointed to enquire into the position and conduct of municipal and charitable institutions throughout the colony visited this institution, and your committee took advantage of the opportunity to impress upon them the necessity for a liberal system of land endowment, urging upon their notice the evils likely to arise in future years from the present system of voluntary donations, and that private subscriptions would in all probability decrease exactly as the general prosperity diminished, the demands upon the hospital becoming greater in proportion to the extent of the depression, so that the efficiency of the institution might very probably be impaired at a period when it was most necessary that it should be at the highest point. The report of the commission has not yet been officially published, but your committee have been led to believe that it will recommend the establishment of such institutions as ours, upon a totally different basis to that now in vogue, so far as their support and Government is concerned.

In consequence of alterations in the internal management of the house, necessitated by the changes referred to in the present report, your committee have devoted much time and attention to the compilation of a new code of rules and regulations, better adapted to meet the present condition of affairs. These rules will be submitted for your approval this evening, and the committee are sanguine that they will be found to act satisfactorily so far as the requirements of the institution in this direction are concerned.

In conclusion, your committee would acknowledge the attention, courtesy, and skill exhibited by the honorary medical and surgical officers in the discharge of their arduous duties, and the perseverance with which the House and Building Committees have devoted themselves to the business of the institution. They would further record their appreciation of the very valuable services rendered to the institution by their indefatigable secretary, Mr. Moore, and their sense of the satisfactory manner in which the resident surgeon, and dispenser have managed their respective departments, under the many disadvantages they have had to contend with consequent upon the alteration in the building above referred to. And now having briefly reviewed the chief occurrences of the year, your committee resign their trust, grateful for the success which has attended their exertions, and in the earnest hope that as the necessities of the Hospital increase, so the sympathies of the public may expand towards the unfortunate victims of accident and disease, who are compelled to seek shelter beneath its roof.
